The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors, vague limitations and limitations lacking antecedent basis. Note, the phrases "Device according to Patent Claims", lying scaffold elements", "according to safety requirements. In claim 1, the use of the term "the safety device consisting" and in line 10, "the safety device comprising", is the "for coupling safety uprights" different from the previously recited safety uprights? "the said". The phrases "the associated guard rails" the associated Uprights", "the safety position", etc. lack antecedent basis. In lines 19 and 20, is the coupling device different form the safety device as suggested? In claim 8 is the turning bar different from the actuating bar? And in claim 6, is the actuating rod different form the bar? Applicant should review the entire claims to comply with 35 U.S.C. 112.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Japanese pat. 285146.

Claims 1 and 4-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Werner. Werner device is capable of being supported on a scaffold.
